Market commentary – November 2018

Equity markets witnessed a rebound in November (up 5%) on optimism around a trade deal between US & China, sharp decline in crude prices and appreciation of USD-INR. The 30% fall in crude prices (from US$ 86/ barrel in beginning October 2018 to below US$ 60/ barrel end November 2018) is extremely positive for the Indian economy. It has single handedly dispersed the dark clouds of challenging macroeconomic environment. Consequent to the crude oil correction, the INR also strengthened 6.5% (from Rs74.4/USD in beginning October 2018 to Rs 69.6/USD end November 2018) bringing relief. The key now would be for the crude oil prices to sustain at the current levels for the economy and the markets to remain buoyant.

After being large sellers in the Indian Equity market since the start of the year, Foreign Institutions turned positive on the markets and were net buyers to the tune of Rs 6400 crores (approx) during the month. Domestic institutions were also net buyers to the tune of Rs 900 crores (approx). On the economic front, growth is steadily improving and inflation remains under control. Industrial production grew 4.7% in October 2018, as against 4.3% in September 2018 and Consumer price inflation eased to 3.31% in October 2018. The indicative interest rates (10-year Government securities) moved downwards to 7.6% from a high of 8.25% over the last two months. It was mainly on account of significant increase in Open market operations (OMO) purchases by RBI and fall in crude oil prices. We expect bond yields to trade in a wide range of 7.40% to 7.80% with easing bias. Our endeavor is to maximize returns by investing in short end of the curve for carry income and duration government bonds to benefit from fall in yields.

Financial Year 2018-19 has been very volatile and uncertain with macro conditions turning bad from good to now looking good again. Crude oil prices sustaining at current levels would again lead to current account deficit, fiscal deficit and inflation coming down, liquidity becoming comfortable and macro looking favorable. We believe that growth should continue accelerating steadily going forward. We are witnessing GDP growth recovering and are expected to accelerate further, driven by fiscal stimulus from the Government. In our view, however, volatility is likely to come from the election heavy calendar with five state elections and the general elections due by May of next year. Also, the US Federal Reserve's policy moves and the trade wars would dictate flow of money in emerging market equities.

Long-term growth drivers, however, remain in place; these being a) recovery in domestic manufacturing and construction, b) strong 2018-19 outlook for rural consumption, c) expected bounce back in earnings growth, d) NPA recognition cycle nearly ending, and f) a pick-up in capacity utilization, which should be a precursor to private capital expenditure revival. We believe that this correction and volatility is a very good time to gradually invest and build a portfolio with a long-term horizon. Regular, systematic, and disciplined investments made during volatile times tend to earn higher returns in the longer term.

Our investment philosophy is based on a disciplined and structured approach of doing research and investing. It includes undiluted focus on fundamental research to identify high-quality businesses, having strong corporate governance framework that will create sustainable value for their shareholders. We employ great rigor and effort in identifying good companies and businesses and holding onto those investments for long periods. The objective is to build a portfolio of companies that will grow and become big over time and in the process generate superior returns.

After seeing the volatility in the markets in recent times, one may be tempted to cash out of the market-linked investments and wait for markets to stabilize. We would suggest that "time in the market is more important than timing the market" to generate good returns over a long-term period. Trying to time the market leads to negative surprises generally and investing on a regular basis is the best investment strategy. Regular investing in times like these leads to purchase of equities at attractive levels and generates superior returns over medium to long term.
